Robert De Niro and Al Pacino have acted opposite each other once and that was in Heat Michael Mann's operatic 1995 heist thriller De Niro is Neil McCauley a skilled professional thief at the centre of a tight knit criminal team Pacino is Vincent Hanna the haunted driven cop determined to hunt him down boasting a series of meticulously orchestrated setpieces that underline Mann's sense of scale and architecture Heat is also a rhapsody to Los Angeles as Hanna closes in on his prey for Nick James the pleasures and virtues of Heat are mixed and complex its precise compositions and minimalist style are entangled with a particular kind of extravagant bombast and while its vision of male teamwork is richly compelling it comes close to glorifying machismo but these complexities only add to the interest of this hugely ambitious and accomplished film which confirmed Mann's place in the front rank of American film makers

David Cronenberg's Crash 1996 brought down a storm of controversy and opprobrium when it was first screened in London and yet it's a cool controlled formal film unsensational more analytic than titillating a brilliant exposé of modern pathologies it has almost none of the violence and explicit sexual content of the J.G. Ballard novel from which it is adapted what is the relationship between Ballard himself and the character James Ballard in Crash in this book which includes an exclusive and revealing interview with Ballard Sinclair explores the uncanny temporal loop which connects film and novel if Cronenberg's adapted Crash he also absorbed it ingested it made it into something new but on the other hand the novel controls the film or uses the film to disguise its truly subversive intent and for Sinclair there are more startling permutations still to what extent for example is Crash a premonition of some of the more remarkable media events of recent times
