What is Analytical Reasoning Analytical reasoning is the ability to Identify patterns and relationships Recognizing recurring themes connections and dependencies within a set of data Deduce logical conclusions Drawing inferences based on the provided information and applying logical principles Analyze arguments Evaluating the validity and soundness of arguments by examining their premises and reasoning Solve problems systematically Breaking down complex issues into smaller manageable parts and developing logical solutions

Types of Analytical Reasoning Questions Here are some common types of analytical reasoning questions you might encounter

Inference Questions These questions ask you to deduce a logical conclusion based on the given information Assumption Questions These questions require you to identify the unstated assumptions that underlie an argument Strengthening/Weakening Questions These questions ask you to identify information that would either support or undermine an argument Logical Reasoning Questions These questions test your ability to identify valid logical relationships between statements

2 Data Interpretation Questions These questions involve analyzing charts graphs or tables to draw conclusions and make predictions

Key Strategies for Analytical Reasoning Read Carefully and Actively Don't rush Read each question and its accompanying information thoroughly Actively engage with the text highlighting key points and underlining important details Identify the Core Argument Understand the main point or argument being presented This will help you focus on the relevant information and avoid distractions Break Down Complex Information If faced with a large amount of information break it down into smaller manageable chunks Analyze each piece separately before combining the information to draw conclusions Use Logical Connectors Pay attention to words like therefore because since and although which indicate logical relationships between statements Consider Alternative Explanations Don't assume the first explanation is the only valid one Explore other possibilities and evaluate their plausibility

Example Analytical Reasoning Question and Solution

Question All doctors are professionals Some professionals are artists Therefore some doctors are artists Is this argument valid

Solution This argument is invalid

Here's why

The Premise The argument states that all doctors are professionals and some professionals are artists

The Conclusion The argument concludes that some doctors are artists

The Flaw The argument makes a false assumption While it's true that some professionals are artists it doesn't automatically follow that some doctors must also be artists The argument fails to establish a direct connection between being a doctor and being an artist

Practice Exercises
